The mission of the Academy of Vocal Arts is to be the world’s premier institution for training young artists as international opera soloists. Through rigorous instruction and coaching, and by presentations of Resident Artists in concerts, oratorios, public programs, and fully staged professional opera productions, the Academy trains artists with the highest potential for career success while enriching lives in Philadelphia and beyond.

Formed in 1933, The Academy of Vocal Arts is the only tuition-free institution dedicated exclusively to the study of voice. When singers leave AVA, they are prepared to share their gifts with audiences of the world, fulfilling not only their own hopes and dreams, but those of AVA’s wise and generous founder.

Gifted singers come from throughout the world to seek the exceptional guidance and training that The Academy of Vocal Arts offers. Admission to the tuition-free program is determined by competitive annual auditions. While hundreds apply, only 8-10 are annually accepted into the 4-year program. AVA’s student body is comprised of approximately 25 artists whose training is equivalent to more than $100,000 per year.

Dear friends,

It is my pleasure to present to you High Notes, the annual report of the Academy of Vocal Arts. The report covers our most recent fiscal year, from July 1, 2012 to June 30, 2013. It represents a concise and accurate picture of AVA during the past year. Aside from the four professional operas and numerous concerts, recitals, lectures, and informal gatherings, the Resident Artists were hard at work training and preparing, not only for the Opera Theater season, but also for their future professional careers. The Resident Artists each receive an hour of vocal training each week in addition to many hours of vocal coaching, language lessons, stage combat lessons, and stage interpretation. Behind the success of each AVA artist stands the outstanding AVA faculty, who guide the Resident Artists through their advanced vocal training.

This has been another successful year of accomplishment at AVA. We graduated seven Resident Artists to promising careers in the field. We had two current Resident Artists, second-year soprano Sydney Mancasola and third-year bass-baritone Musa Ngqungwana, win the Metropolitan Opera National Council Auditions in New York. We presented a seldom heard opera by Massenet, Don Quichotte, with the generous support of the Pew Center for Arts and Heritage through the Philadelphia Music Project. Don Quichotte not only brought legendary stage director Tito Capobianco and alumnus Burak Bilgili back to the AVA stage, but it also was the first time the opera has been performed in Philadelphia since 1926. And, in the middle of all of this, we announced that we are beginning a capital campaign, Raising Our Voices, which will significantly expand the AVA facilities and increase the endowment, thereby solidifying AVA’s place as the pre-eminent opera training institution in the U.S.

We hope that you had the opportunity to join us this season to see our Resident Artists in action. We also hope that you might consider supporting us in the upcoming season, both by attending AVA performances, and supporting the tuition-free training of these outstanding young artists. Thank you for being such a valuable member of the AVA family. It is through your support that the Resident Artists and The Academy of Vocal Arts continue to enjoy great success.

Warm regards,

K. James McDowell
During the 2012/2013 Season, AVA presented over thirty concerts and performances with approximately 10,000 attendees. The Opera Theater Season featured a fall production of Rossini’s Il barbiere di Siviglia. The winter production of Tchaikovsky’s Eugene Onegin, was semi-staged and featured piano accompaniment by Russian vocal coach Ghenady Meirson. In the spring, AVA was presented with a unique opportunity to stage Massenet’s rarely performed Don Quichotte. The opera was last performed in Philadelphia in 1926 and offered AVA alumnus Burak Bilgili the opportunity to return to his alma mater singing the title role alongside second-year bass Patrick Guetti. Legendary stage director Tito Capobianco returned to AVA to direct the production. This project was generously supported by the Pew Center for Arts and Heritage through the Philadelphia Music Project.

The spring opera was Verdi’s dramatic Un ballo in maschera. Also directed by Tito Capobianco, the production was well received by audiences and critics alike. It offered a great opportunity to first-year soprano Marina Costa-Jackson, who sang the principal role of Amelia in all of the evening performances. The AVA concert season was rounded out with the popular Giargiari Bel Canto Competition, Jubilate! A Concert of Sacred Music and Oratorio Masterpieces, and the New Artist and Farewell Recitals. Additionally, AVA presented a series of pre-production lectures on each of its operas. These lectures, meant to give patrons an inside look at the production and rehearsal process, were wildly popular—over 500 people took advantage of the free series.

The Opera Outreach program had one of its most successful seasons as three AVA productions were presented to area students in Wednesday matinee productions. Il barbiere di Siviglia, Don Quichotte, and Un ballo in maschera were all presented in special performances, which over 1,700 students attended. In addition to performances, comprehensive study guides were prepared for students and teachers to learn more about the history of the specific opera as well as more general information on opera as an art form. Following each student matinee, the Resident Artists remained on stage to take questions from the eager audience members. AVA Resident Artists made a special appearance at The Baldwin School’s Arts Day, and Opera Outreach Coordinator, Rebecca Carr, attended Career Day at William Cramp Elementary School to discuss career opportunities in opera.

To learn more about the Academy of Vocal Arts’ Opera Outreach program or to help Opera Outreach come to a school near you, contact Rebecca Carr at 215.735.1685 or at rcarr@avaopera.org.

Over 300 attendees joined the faculty, staff, and Resident Artists of the Academy of Vocal Arts at the annual fund-raising gala, Viva la Voce! This year’s event, held at the beautiful Penn Museum, was one of the most successful galas in the Academy’s history. After a lovely cocktail hour and silent auction in the Upper Egyptian Room, the AVA Resident Artists serenaded our patrons with selected arias in the Museum’s intimate auditorium. During the concert, AVA Board Chairman B.A. (Mackie) MacLean, Jr. announced Raising Our Voices, the $10 million campaign for AVA’s future. He was joined by President and Artistic Director, K. James McDowell; alum Richard Troxell; current Resident Artist Musa Ngqungwana; and founding family member William G. Warden IV. Each spoke about AVA’s impact on their lives and on the future of opera. After the concert, guests journeyed to the Chinese Rotunda for a sumptuous dinner, wine, dessert, and an enthusiastic live auction!

The Gala Committee of the AVA Board of Directors would like to thank everyone who attended for making the event such a spectacular success! Over $150,000 was raised for the AVA Scholarship Fund.

At the 2013 Viva la Voce! gala, we formally announced the Raising Our Voices campaign, which represents an exciting, new chapter in the history of the Academy of Vocal Arts. In 2008, AVA was presented with a unique opportunity to purchase 1916 Spruce Street. The purchase of 1916 Spruce Street enlarged the AVA facility to three brownstones and presented the special opportunity to combine those three building into one dedicated training complex. With the economic downturn, thoughts of renovating the three buildings into one complex had to be put on hold. Now, with a stronger economy and the support of our generous donors, the Academy of Vocal Arts is ready to complete the renovation process.

The goals of Raising Our Voices are two-fold: to renovate and expand upon AVA's existing historic facilities to better serve both our artists and our audiences, and to increase AVA's endowment to ensure financial stability in the years to come.

The Raising Our Voices campaign has a total goal of $10 million, an achievable number thanks to the many generous donors who have contributed leadership gifts to the renovations. The total goal is divided into two parts: $6 million to strengthen the AVA endowment and $4 million for the capital expansion and facility enhancement.
Thanks to our many generous donors, more than $8 million has been raised for this vital campaign. Thank you to all our campaign donors!

If you are interested in learning more about Raising Our Voices, please contact Robert Lyon, Director of Institutional Advancement at 215-735-1685 ext. 16 or by email at rlyon@avaopera.org. We are pleased to share the full details of the campaign and discuss with you the ways in which you can see yourself becoming involved in this important project.
SUPPORTING AVA

AVA would not exist without the valuable support of its many donors and patrons. If you love opera, a gift to AVA is a wonderful way to invest in this vital art form. You can take pride in knowing that you are doing your part to ensure the success of the art form by supporting the Resident Artists who are the voice of opera’s future. There are a number of ways that you can support the AVA Resident Artists and the future of opera.

ANNUAL GIVING THROUGH THE FRIENDS OF AVA
The Friends of AVA are a dedicated group of supporters who by investing in AVA’s mission through annual gifts, nurture and launch the world’s most promising vocal artists. Donors are offered the rare opportunity to get to know the Resident Artists and artistic team personally through the Friends of AVA’s exclusive parties, concerts, and opera trips.

FELLOWSHIPS
AVA is the only tuition-free school in America devoted solely to operatic training. All AVA Resident Artists receive the equivalent of more than $100,000 in vocal training for each of the four years of the program. While the program has always been tuition free, AVA began providing fellowships to assist with the cost of living during the Resident Artists’ duration of training in Philadelphia. Resident Artist fellowships can be endowed or funded on a yearly basis, beginning at $5,000 per student annually.

THE HELEN CORNINGWARDEN SOCIETY-PLANNED GIVING
The Helen Corning Warden Society acknowledges the generosity of those who have included the Academy of Vocal Arts in their estate plans. Gifts can be made in a variety of ways and permit donors to make meaningful contributions that they might not otherwise be able to commit to currently. In addition to bequests, AVA accepts: charitable remainder trusts, charitable lead trusts, charitable gift annuities, life insurance, and retirement plan designations. The AVA Development Department will work with you to identify the best planned giving option for your needs.

CORPORATE SPONSORSHIPS
Many visibility opportunities are available to corporations through AVA opera and concert sponsorships, and through sponsorship of the annual gala, Viva la Voce! The AVA Development Office can tailor your sponsorship package to meet the unique philanthropic and marketing objectives of your business.

MATCHING GIFTS
Your employer may match your gift to AVA, either entirely or in some portion. In some instances, this may double or even triple the benefit of your gift to the Academy of Vocal Arts and its Resident Artists! Check with your employer’s benefits office to determine their matching gift requirements. Donors who arrange a match for their gift will be recognized for the total combined value.

THE UNITED WAY
AVA’s Opera Outreach program is eligible to receive individual contributions made through the United Way Specific Care Program. All you need to do is complete the top portion of your United Way form, and then find the line for SPECIFIC CARE and enter AVA’s code #3164, the amount of your gift, and the eligible agency name: the Academy of Vocal Arts Opera Outreach.

OPERATING INCOME
$3,808,910

Operating income consists of revenue from a variety of sources. Like many schools, the largest single revenue source for AVA is the investment income from its endowment, as provided by a spending rule that is approved each year by the AVA Board of Directors. Other sources of revenue are individual contributions, box office ticket sales, fellowships, and special events, such as the annual gala, among other sources. The biggest sources of the AVA revenue all stem from one commonality: they are all greatly influenced by the generous supporters and donors like you! AVA was also the recipient of several large bequests from generous donors over the fiscal year that may receive a special designation to the capital campaign.

OPERATING EXPENSES
$3,490,496

The two largest expenditures that AVA has, personnel and opera theatre/production expenses, are directly related to the training program. Personnel expenses include salaries for top faculty and teachers, as well as administrative staff. The opera theatre expenses include costs for three full-scale, professionally staged opera productions, in addition to any costs associated with other recitals, concerts, and piano productions.

Please note: The operating income and expense percentages reflect unaudited financial statements for the 2012-2013 fiscal year. The AVA audit will be available on the website and at www.guidestar.org
